YOUNG AT ART | MUSEUM

20TH ANNUAL RECYCLED FASHION SHOW

ECO EVER AFTER

BE A FEATURED RESTAURANT or VENDOR FOR YOUNG AT ART'S RECYCLED FASHION SHOW!

Saturday, April 17, 2027

Witness Young At Art Museum's (YAA) most environmentally conscious runway show yet as talented teen designers debut their original garments made from recycled materials inspired by the unique ecosystem of South Florida and the environmental threats impacting us locally. For more than 38 years Young At Art has inspired young artists to find their artistic voice. On Saturday, April 17 from 5-8 pm guests will be amazed at the talent and creativity of local teen designers ages 13-18 showcasing their sustainable recycled, couture fashions in a NY style fashion show. Teen designers in YAA's Volunteer Program and YAA's Girls Empowered Program at PACE Center Broward receive free college level coursework from YAA in introductory design, patternmaking, and sewing. 100% of net proceeds from the fashion show benefit YAA's Museum Programing and Community Initiatives that serve low-income children, families, and at-risk teen girls.

SUPPORT OUR COMMUNITY:

Proceeds from the Recycled Fashion Show benefit YAA's Museum Programming and Community Initiatives which bring art-based experiences to underserved communities where the opportunity to engage with art is limited by geography, ethnicity, economics, or disability. Our dedication to the belief that art can transform lives is exemplified through four major community initiatives for children & families in Broward.

ARTREACH

a free after school art and academic enrichment program for underserved youth.

GIRLS EMPOWERED

an arts-based gender empowerment program conducted at PACE Center Broward for at-risk teen girls.

YAA for ALL (Access to Lifelong Learning)

Working in partnership with the University of Miami – Nova Southeastern University's Center for Autism and Related Disabilities (CARD), YAA has developed special programs and events for children and adults with autism or other sensory integration sensitivities.

YAA at Home

providing free online educational art activities and videos for all to access anywhere and anytime.

YAA On-The-Go

A minibus program that increases the number of homeless children served as well as providing access to art-based programs for children and families at schools and community events in Broward's low-income neighborhoods.
